A MAN OF INFLUENCE.

A North Carolina Politician Secures an Appointment in the Face of Grave Charges.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—[Special.]—The confirmation by the senate yesterday of W. H. Wheeler, to be collector of internal revenue for the fifth North Carolina district, has caused a great deal of unfavorable comment here. Wheeler is charged with having obtained from the cashier of the First National bank of Winston, North Carolina, $9000, which money was counted among the public funds, presumably to make up a deficiency there, and afterward returned it to the bank, and that there were other acts of the same nature, at other times. Affidavit to this effect is made by Charles A. Reynolds, a former employe in the office. It is alleged that Wheeler caused to be drawn checks payable to his subordinate officers, and signed or caused to be signed on the back of said checks the names of the payees, without their knowledge or consent, and that he caused said checks to be collected and paid to himself by certain of his employes, McKee, Wilson and Worth, and subsequently sent to the payees sums less than the amounts represented by the checks.

OTHER CHARGES.

Wheeler is also charged with having, under cover of political assessments, collected and retained large sums, when no political campaign was pending, and apparently largely in excess of any political expenses incurred by him. He is accused of having made subordinates in his office reimburse him for expenses said to have been incurred for campaign purposes. Wheeler is also accused of having permitted a person named Tuck to control the appointment of subordinate officers in Caswell and Purcell counties and that said subordinates were paid through Tuck instead of sending checks directly to the payees, as required by the rules of the department.

Reynolds, in his affidavit, charges that in many instances money handed Wheeler to be paid third parties never reached its destination, and specifications and names of persons so swindled were submitted to the finance committee of the senate.

Ex-Marshal Robert M. Douglas made an affidavit which was submitted to the committee on finance, charging that Wheeler in violation of the statutes submitted to the treasury department a false plan of the organization of his office, in which he designated Miss Sallie A. Hale as deputy in charge of the office and A. C. Wheeler as stamp clerk, when neither of these ladies, both members of his immediate family, had performed any of the duties of their respective positions and do not even go to his public office. Wheeler was indicted by the grand jury of the United States district court, at the April term, 1881, North Carolina, with embezzlement, and several of his subordinate officers for other offenses, and that Wheeler, well knowing the facts, retained said subordinates and appointed or recommended for appointment several of them during his last term.

WHY THE APPOINTMENT WAS MADE.

Other charges of a very serious character are made by a number of gentlemen from their personal cognizance with the facts. Wheeler was appointed several weeks ago, and the senate finance committee, on the showing made, reported his nomination adversely. Afterwards the appointment was recommitted, and a favorable report was obtained from the committee. So far as can be learned here, the sole purpose of the president in sending this nomination to the senate is to promote a man who would influence the delegates to the Chicago convention from North Carolina to vote for Arthur. Senator Sherman, when he was secretary of the treasury, removed Wheeler because of his fraudulent practices. It was claimed, however, that he was removed because he preferred Grant instead of Sherman as presidential candidate.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES.

ENGLAND.

POISONED BY EATING CANNED MEAT.

LONDON, May 23.—[Special.]—A large quantity of beef imported in tins from Chicago has recently been sold in Scarborough, and to-day several of the persons who had eaten of it were taken ill with symptoms of poisoning. One man has died, and three others are reported to be dying. There is intense excitement in the town.

NEGOTIATIONS AT A DEADLOCK.

LONDON, May 23.—In consequence of the porte absolutely insisting on the abolition of the "favored nation" clause, commercial negotiations between the powers has reached a deadlock. Russia and England, especially, insist that it be inserted in the convention.

EAST PORTLAND COUNCIL.

A special meeting of the common council of East Portland occurred last evening, Mayor Sanders in the chair and all members present except Crane.

The mayor stated the object of the meeting to be the consideration of a petition relating to the bridge over Sullivan's gulch on Fifth street, which he directed the clerk to read.

The petition explains a matter of much interest to property owners that has been pending for some time, and is given entire:

"The undersigned respectfully represents that he is the assignee of the contract between the city of East Portland and J. E. Bennett for the building of the bridge on Fifth street across Sullivan's gulch, which bridge your committee on streets and public property has refused to accept, on the ground that such bridge is not built according to the requirements of said contract. I further represent that I am desirous of fully complying with such contract, and to that end I am willing to make any changes and additions in such work as may be found necessary to make a substantial compliance with such contract, and make the bridge, in every respect, as good a structure as the plans require. If, therefore your committee will cause an examination of said bridge to be made by some competent person or persons, or will themselves so do, and will indicate what is found necessary to obviate all objections to the bridge, I will at once proceed and make the necessary changes or additions to the full extent required.

North Pacific Lumber & Mfg Co.,
by L. Therkelsen, superintendent."

On motion of Councilman Smith, the petition was referred to the committee on streets and public property.

Mayo then moved that the committee on streets be directed to appoint an expert to meet with one appointed by the company represented by Mr. Therkelsen, said experts to examine the bridge and to report to the committee what changes and additions the bridge may require to put it in proper condition, and in case of their disagreement they to appoint a third; and that the committee report to the next regular meeting of the council. The motion was adopted. The council then adjourned.

In relation to the above matter Mr. C. L. Sp[illegible]re has been named to act on behalf of the city and Mr. Joseph Smith on behalf of the lumber company, and Monday next appointed as the time of their meeting to examine the bridge, if agreeable.

They Deserved It.

Springfield Republican.

Young Grant remarks that "no one would lose so much by the failure except those who deserved to." There is an unusual degree of truth in his cynical observation, although it is also true that many innocent parties will suffer by the collapse. It is a little of the Grant coldbloodedness in it, in view of the fact that it sweeps away the fortunes of his own parents.

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

The Latest about the Financial Situation at New York.

THE GRANT FAMILY AND THEIR TROUBLES.

The First Democratic Gun Fired from Tammany Hall—Big Fire Raging in Oil Tanks at Philadelphia—News Notes.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—The Herald says: It is announced upon authority that General Grant declined to receive back the property turned over to Vanderbilt in payment of the $150,000 loan. So much sentiment is connected with personal misfortunes of the general, and his attitude toward his creditors, that the Vanderbilt incident is becoming a matter of great interest. It is known that General Grant has been very much borne down by the whole affair, but he insists upon paying his debt to Vanderbilt. His sons have personally assumed all debts which they contracted for the firm, but this was only a debt contracted by the general. His wife is as desirous as her husband that the obligation shall be discharged, although it ruins both of them, and leaves them the income of bonds purchased by friends as their only property. He is transferring all his property by mortgage to Vanderbilt. Besides his Philadelphia property he has mortgaged two brick buildings in Washington, one on O street, and the other on Vermont avenue, worth together about $12,000. He will not rest satisfied until the obligation is secured beyond all doubt or question, to the utmost farthing.

A BRIGHT VIEW.

A distinguished friend of the general's said yesterday: "I am satisfied, from what I know, that when all fictitious claims against Grant & Ward have been eliminated, and all the real assets which undoubtedly belong to the firm are recovered, there will be enough money to pay every proper creditor in full. Of course when the firm first failed the matter was a sealed book, and no one could tell how the thing stood. I am sure that when all the absurdities of the heavy claims against the firm are sifted, the assets will balance the liabilities. You may rely upon what I say."

The general receives offers of assistance and letters of sympathy from all parts of the country. B. F. Butler recently said: "I must believe that General Grant knew nothing whatever about the workings of the firm of Grant & Ward. While I agree that it seems almost impossible that he should not have known, yet still I believe he did not, because of the Vanderbilt loan. If he had known the condition of things he would have known the loan was only a drop in the bucket, and that to give it to the firm was to throw away his last dollar. He has evidently been a credulous believer in the infallibility of Ward. There is not a scintilla of evidence that he knew, as others did, that the way money was claimed to be made was through contracts got through his influence."

MRS. GRANT INTERVIEWED.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—A World reporter interviewed Mrs. General Grant, who said about her son: "It is perfectly shameful that such a rumor should be circulated and that it should be published in the papers. Why should my son go to Canada? Why should he be afraid of being arrested? Why should any body want to arrest him? Is my son a thief? You have a thief under arrest," she bitterly said, "a man who has robbed and ruined us. It is false and untrue that my son Ulysses has run away. He was here this afternoon and took lunch with me at 3 o'clock."

"He has moved from the city, has he not?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, because he has lost, has been robbed of everything. He has gone to Morristown, New Jersey, to obtain a roof to shelter himself and his family. He is too poor to live in the city." Her tones were very sad and mournful as she said this.

THE DISGRACED FINANCIERS.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—It was generally reported about town last night that John C. Eno, lately president of the Second National bank, was to be arrested. As a matter of fact, Deputy Sheriff McGonigal and three assistants passed the entire evening in the vicinity of his house in Park avenue, a little below Thirty-seventh street. McGonigal went away about 9:30, but two of his assistants spent the night in the locality.

Ferdinand Ward occupies the rooms in the jail formerly occupied by Tweed. It is said the United States district attorney expresses his determination to ask the United States grand jury to indict Ferdinand Ward, James D. Fish and John C. Eno, the first as director and the other two as presidents of national banks, for fraud and embezzlement.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Half a dozen detectives and deputy officers watched the house of John C. Eno to-night. The servants admitted only intimate friends of Eno, who is in bed sick.

FISK & HATCH'S AFFAIRS.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—The Tribune says: It was learned last night that arrangements had been made for taking up the remaining loans on government bonds made by Fisk & Hatch that have not yet been liquidated. A part of the loans secured by the firm have been settled by the sale of government bonds held as collateral. To what extent this has been done is not known. The remainder of the bonds owned by the firm have been purchased by I. and S. Wormser, in conjunction with three other capitalists. Members of the firm declined last night to give details of the transaction. They said the bonds would not be thrown on the market, but would be held for investment. Some of them would pass into control of trust companies and other financial institutions. It is understood other arrangements will be in progress, which, if carried out, will permit early resumption of business by Fisk & Hatch.

KEENE'S FINANCES.

James R. Keene this afternoon told a reporter that he expected to be able to pay his debts in full, if his creditors would give him a little time. To this end he makes a proposition to the holders of his obligations, adjusted and unadjusted, to accept his notes, dated May 1, 1884, for the full sum due them on that day, payable in twelve and eighteen months. For privileges not matured on that day he proposes to give notes for the amounts received by him when the privileges were issued.

FAILURE NOTES.

NEW YORK, May 23.—U. S. Grant, Jr., came from Morristown, N. J., his home, this morning to the office of Grant & Ward. He laughs at the rumor of his supposed flight to Canada, and says he has no intention of leaving. He intends to remain and attend to the business necessarily growing out of his financial imbroglio. Colonel Fred Grant is also in the city.

The syndicate that has taken the government bonds from Fisk & Hatch is composed of I. and S. Wormser, Louis L. Hoyt, J. B. Colgate, and the United States Trust Company. It is stated that the syndicate took all the firm had. By this operation banks and others having loans on bonds are relieved and Fisk & Hatch placed in a position to adjust their affairs.

Failures the past seven days in the United States number 210, an increase of 23.

Insolvent schedules of the firm of Owens & Mercer were filed to-day. Liabilities, $400,468; nominal assets, $383,397; actual assets, $28,945.

Judge Donohue granted several orders permitting Receiver Davis, for the firm of Grant & Ward, to adjust the claims of creditors.

THE STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Governments, higher. Railways, weak and lower. Shares, heavy and depressed. Coal stocks in early trading were marked by the lowest prices for years. Jersey Central broke 7 per cent to 53, Delaware and Hudson 6 to 91, Lackawanna 2½ to 101½ and Reading 1¾ to 21½. Near the close the bears singled out the Northern Pacific shares, and broke the common from 21½ to 19½ and the preferred from 46½ to 43⅝. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy touched 111, against 116½ during the morning. Some shares were comparatively firm at the close, but the market was, as a rule, weak. Compared with last night closing prices are 7 per cent. lower for Lackawanna, 4½ for Northwestern, 5½ for Delaware and Hudson, 1½ for Northern Pacific preferred, 1½ for New York Central, 1¾ for St. Paul preferred and 1¼ to 1 per cent. for the other active shares, except Central Pacific, which is ¼ higher at 41½, and Pacific Mail ¼ at 36½.

THE PITTSBURG BANK RESUMES.

PITTSBURG, May 23—2:30 P. M.—The Pennsylvania bank have not yet opened their doors, but expect to do so in a few minutes. It was the original intention to resume payment at 1 o'clock, but the details could not be arranged. About 100 persons are on the pavement, and steps waiting for the doors to open. The bank has been receiving deposits all day and a very small run is anticipated. There is no excitement in financial circles and confidence has been restored.

The doors were thrown open at 2:30 P. M. The bank is crowded, but nearly as many are depositing as are drawing out.

THE RICHMOND FAILURE.

RICHMOND, Va., May 23.—The liabilities of Blanchard are $120,000. Among the creditors are Baring Bros. & Co., Boston, $47,000; Massachusetts national bank, Boston, $30,000; state bank, Richmond, $12,000; T. G. Lurman, Baltimore $8400. The failure was due to heavy dealings in futures.

THE FIRE RECORD.

OIL TANKS BURNING AT PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—Lightning to-night struck a large tank containing crude oil at the Atlantic Refinery company's works, on the Schuylkill river, in the extreme southern portion of the city. The flames communicated to another large tank, four small ones, and at 12:30 all were burning fiercely. It is feared oil in other tanks will also catch. The loss at that hour was estimated at $50,000. Several vessels moored at the wharves were towed into the river. Some of the larger tanks, to which the flames have not reached, contain benzine and paraffine, and it is not improbable that they will also be burned.

New York's Postmaster Interviewed.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—Postmaster Pearson was seen this morning by your reporter regarding complaints of delay in newspaper mails to San Francisco. He said: "The service from the east to the west is of course the most important in the country. Our efforts are and have been constantly directed to its improvement. Evening papers leave here at 8:30 P. M. by fast mail train over the New York Central road. Within two months connections in the west have been shortened so that they reach Chicago at 12:55 the following night. A special fast train carries them on to Omaha at 8:30. The mail carrying morning papers, which left several hours before, is overtaken at Ogden, Utah. From this point out there is only one mail train daily. Under the present arrangements evening papers leave Ogden on the same day they arrive. This gets them in San Francisco in the same mail with the morning papers of the same date. The service from the Pacific coast east has not been changed in some time. Successive postmasters have tried to shorten this branch of the service, but their efforts have been balked by the inadequate appropriation for the purpose. The only way I see now to improve the time from the west to the east would be to induce some one of the Pacific rail routes to give us double day service to Ogden, where they now run only one mail train daily. The transit time from San Francisco here is five days, ten and one-half hours."

Postmaster Pearson did not explain how it happened that late afternoon editions of San Francisco papers are still delivered here eight days after publication.

The Presbyterian Assembly.

SARATOGA, May 23.—In the Presbyterian general assembly Rev. James A. McGaw submitted the report of the standing committee on temperance. Resolutions were adopted against intemperance and the liquor traffic and which recommends that all the synods and presbyteries shall appoint committees on temperance; that the presbytery committee arrange for holding a temperance institute; that ministers be urged to preach on the subject of temperance; that laws for the suppression of the traffic in liquor should be enforced; that the assembly gratefully recognizes the power of the press, both religious and secular, in moulding public opinion, and stimulating to right action on this subject, and recognizes the increased use of this agency.

The Extra Session.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—The Tribune editorially, reviewing the extra session of the California legislature, concludes: "All evils have their compensations. Two beneficial results will follow the extra session. It has placed California firmly in the republican column this year. The democrats themselves concede as much. In the second place the raid upon capital has collapsed, and in a most effectual way, by making itself ridiculous, and it is probable that for some time to come California corporations will be permitted to manage their own business without special molestation, and demagogues will have to find some other sham issue upon which to ride into power."

John Brown.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—Seven out of the twelve jurors who convicted John Brown in West Virginia in 1859 are still living. The average age of this celebrated jury is not far from 70 years. John Brown's scaffold has been lately taken down from the porch into which it was built after the execution, and cut up into relics for sale. General Patterson's army carried away in 1861 a large locust tree on which they believed Brown was hanged, but the whereabouts of the scaffold was kept secret till the close of the war.

The Floods in Texas.

GALVESTON, May 23.—Railroad traffic throughout the flooded district of the state is still generally suspended. No mails have been received from the north for two days. No accurate estimate of the damage to the various railroad lines is yet obtained but well informed gentlemen of this city place the damage to railroad property at as high as two millions.

Refuses to Leave his Wife.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—Charles B. Potter, of Schenectady was recently married. His father subsequently died, leaving him $2,000,000 if he will separate from his wife. Charles refuses. The will is now under consideration by the court, witnesses declaring the old man insane.

Wool Market.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—Wool is dull and nominal.

BOSTON, May 23.—Wool is dull, Ohio and Pennsylvania extras, 34@40; Michigan fleeces, 32@33; unwashed wools, 11@26; California spring, 17@19; pulled 30@39.

Crop Estimate.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 23.—The state agricultural board estimates that the winter wheat crop of the state will not exceed 82 per cent of the average yield.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

EXTENSIVE BURGLARY.

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—The vault in the city hall in East St. Louis was wrecked last night by burglars, and property valued at $18,000 taken. The most of it is city scrip, which is good for its face value. The combination to the vault was broken with a heavy hammer. Two holes were then bored through the safe near the combination lock, and powder was then poured in and exploded. The explosion was not sufficient to open the door, and a hole two feet square was dug through a twenty inch brick wall of the vault. Inside the vault is a smaller safe in which money and valuables are kept, but it showed no signs of having been violently opened, except that the lock was sprung. The small drawers in this safe were forced open and the contents taken. A large sledge hammer, a horse-shoer's hammer, a common brace, and several small tools used by blacksmiths were found this morning on the floor, close to the door. All were identified by Patrick Burns, a horse-shoer of Collinsville avenue, as having been stolen from his shop last night. A reward of $5000 is offered for the arrest of the burglars.

A PAYING TELLER DECAMPS.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Charles A. Hinckley, paying teller of the West Side bank, Eighth avenue and Thirty-fourth street, embezzled $96,000 of the bank's funds and decamped. The embezzlement was discovered Wednesday last. Hinckley did not appear at the bank Wednesday morning, and not answering to a summons sent to his house, was suspected of some wrong. The books were overhauled and a large deficit detected. The bank officers certify that the capital stock, $200,000, is intact, and the surplus $100,018. Hinckley has been connected with the bank as paying teller ever since its organization fifteen years ago. He was regarded as a man most rigid in integrity.

OHIO MURDERER HANGED.

WAVERLY, O., May 23.—Laban Stevens, the third man convicted of the murder of Anderson Lackey, near Jackson, Ohio, was hanged here to-day. A large crowd is in town, though the execution was private. Stevens slept well and made a confession this morning to a relative of the victim, saying he had planned robbery but not murder. The hanging took place at 1 o'clock.

A LITTLE GIRL OUTRAGED AND MURDERED.

DETROIT, May 23.—The 6 year old daughter of William Dyke, living a mile east of Hillsdale, was outraged and murdered last night. Her body was discovered this morning. Her skull was crushed in with a stone. Great excitement prevails.

WIFE MURDERER HANGED.

LITTLE VALLEY, N. Y., May 23.—Charles B. Clarke was hanged for the murder of his wife to-day.

POLITICAL.

THE FIRST DEMOCRATIC GUN.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Tammany hall was crowded to-night, the occasion of the meeting which, the advertisements said, was the first gun for the presidential canvass. Tilden's name evoked long continued cheers whenever mentioned. Congressmen Blackburn and Hurd were the principal speakers. Morrison sent a letter reiterating his well known views. Speaker Carlisle, in a letter, said: "Since the close of the war more than four-fifths of the internal revenue taxes have been abolished, while the tariff remains substantially unchanged. Indeed, on many articles of necessity in common use among the people the rates of duty are higher now than during the war, while on nearly all of them the duties are much higher in proportion to the market value of the articles than they were then. Taxes on the vices and the luxuries of the people have been greatly reduced, or entirely abolished, while the taxes upon the necessaries of life and tools and implements of labor have been retained, and in some instances increased. Under this policy commerce has been obstructed, the cost of production increased and the earnings of labor confiscated. Stability in the laws affecting the industrial interests of the people is absolutely essential to the continuous and rapid development of our resources, but stability can be insured only by doing as nearly as possible exact justice to all whose interests are affected by such legislation."

ARTHUR MAKES A DENIAL.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—A Philadelphia paper recently said that Arthur declared: "In addition to our own votes we will need democratic votes to carry New York." The Herald is authorized emphatically and unequivocally to deny that the president ever so expressed himself, and not only this, but to say that he holds precisely the opposite opinions.

ACCIDENTS.

RAILROAD COLLISION.

ROCHESTER, May 23.—Details of the collision of the St. Louis express with a freight train last night have been received. Seven cars were overturned and twenty persons injured, none fatally. All were taken to hotels. Prince Yamashiki of Japan was bruised about the side and arms and eleven members of his suite were bruised.

NEW YORK, May 23.—[Special.]—M. Takahash, Japanese consul to this city, asked Superintendent Toucey of the Hudson river railroad this morning for a special train to Rochester to attend the Japanese prince who was injured in the railroad accident there. He could not get the train through till 2:20 P. M., when the party left for the scene of the disaster.

PACIFIC COAST.

The Policy of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company.

AN INTERVIEW WITH ATTORNEY McNAUGHT.

How the Company Regards the Recent Action of Seattle on the Forfeiture Question—Coast News from Various Points.

SEATTLE, May 23.—[Special.]—The Herald to-night publishes an interview with Hon. James McNaught, attorney for the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, in which he says: "The course of the company is the same as it always was—free from partiality, and they are anxious to develop the northwest as rapidly as consistent with their financial resources. Do you think the people of Seattle ought to expect much from a corporation that they have assailed in the manner they have the Northern Pacific? I tell you that there were no justifiable reasons for the people of Seattle assaulting the company as they did. The best proof of my assertion is in the fact that no good has resulted from their action. On the contrary, a great deal of injury has been done to both parties. These are facts which can be demonstrated to be true. Your dull times are mainly due to the suicidal policy of your people. I know instances where men of $40,000 or $50,000 capital, who had made up their mind to locate here, left for the reason that they did not consider it a safe place to invest money, where people lost their heads without the slightest provocation. Had the Northern Pacific acted similarly to the Central Pacific of California here would have been just ground for the complaint. Our company has never discriminated against one point in favor of another, and never will. I was slow to convince myself that the people of so intelligent a community as this could be induced to follow the advice of one who had lived in a railroad ridden state the greater part of his life."

THE CASCADE DIVISION.

"Yes; but all this, Mr McNaught, is irrelevant to the main subject. What I want to know is whether the Cascade division is to be built by your company within a reasonable time, and through a pass which will be equally beneficial to the company and the people of the entire Sound basin, regardless of local interests?"

"I will answer you by handing you this letter. Read it."

The letter, addressed to Mr McNaught personally, bore the signature of Mr. Harris, president of the company. The following extract will suffice to cover Mr. McNaught's answer: "The policy of the company has undergone no change. Assure the people of Seattle that it is the aim of our company to develop their resources and treat all parties fairly and impartially."

"Read this dispatch," observed Mr. McNaught. "You see it is of recent date," and he handed over a dispatch, also signed by Mr. Harris, referring to negotiations between the Northern Pacific Company and the allied companies, by which the broad gauge would be opened for traffic in a few weeks.

"To show you that the company has done all in its power to open that road, Mr. Buckley, the assistant general superintendent, came here last week from Tacoma, for the purpose of making up a time-table, but found the road without turn-tables or side-tracks, so he had to return and arrange for its completion before doing anything else."

A QUESTION OF FINANCES.

"Why has your company shut down its mills and machine shops, and ceased work on the Cedar river division, is it not meant as a punishment to those who favored forfeiture?"

"No, sir; finance is the main trouble. Just when the company needed all the strength it could get to enable it to negotiate bonds for construction purposes it encountered an assault from the people against the very security it offered capitalists. In this manner the company and the people have suffered through the imprudence of a few men who were aspiring to the delegateship. Their action virtually stopped the company from proceeding with its work. However, you may read this dispatch, and I think that will settle the policy of the company, as regards the building of the Cascade division."

The dispatch stated that locating parties had been ordered out to locate twenty-five miles of the road on each side of the mountains, and that the work of construction would be commenced at once. This, like the previous dispatch, was signed by President Harris.

"How do you regard Seattle's future, from a commercial standpoint? Mr. McNaught," asked the reporter.

"Better than it ever was."

"How about the Wilkeson coal road?"

"We earned that land by building what we will make a part and parcel of the Cascade line, by connecting it with the western division of the Cascade branch. It was originally intended as a part of that division, and it is and will be. All we ask is justice, and a chance for our lines. The popular cry against corporations in California does not hold good in this territory. We have acted in entire good faith, and will build as soon as possible."

THE COMPANY'S POLICY UNCHANGED.

"Is the Northern Pacific still in the same benevolent monopoly that it was under the Villard management?"

"My instructions are no different, under the present management, than under that of Mr. Villard. Therefore I feel at liberty to say that the company occupies precisely the same position that it did under the old regime. I am satisfied that it is for the interest of the company to build the road by a route which will serve the Puyallup valley and the people about and north of Ellensburg, seeing that there are in that section hundreds of thousands of acres of good agricultural land. Adjacent to the Stampede pass anthracite coal, copper and iron are found in such abundance as will amply warrant the building of a line for the conveyance of those alone, and the timber lands on both sides of the mountains, near the Stampede pass, are better than those adjoining either of the other passes suggested."

MAJORS HANGED.

He Dies Protesting his Innocence, and Meets his Fate Bravely.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—Lloyd L. Majors, implicated in the murder of Renowden and McIntyre, near Lexington, Santa Clara county, last year, was hanged this morning in Oakland, at twelve minutes past 11. He protested his innocence up to the last moment. In conversation with J. B. Renowden, brother of one of the two murdered men, he said: "You may draw the life blood from my arm, and with this pen I will write my innocence of all connection with the crime in my own blood." As he spoke he appealed to heaven to witness the truth of his statements. Although still suffering from the effects of his late desperate attempt to escape, he walked from his cell to the scaffold with a firm, unflinching step.

About 150 people had gathered in the jail yard, and the roofs of surrounding houses were covered with people desirous of witnessing the execution.

MEETS HIS FATE BRAVELY.

As the condemned man approached the scaffold he looked up, and then, without a moment's hesitation, ascended the steps, and took up his position firmly and erectly on the drop. A slight swaying of the body was apparent, but no sign of fear or weakness was manifested. Contrary to expectation he made no speech from the gallows, maintaining throughout a stolid silence. When everything was ready the bolt was pulled, and Majors went down. Eight minutes after the surgeon pronounced life extinct, and a few minutes later the body was cut down and placed in a coffin, for delivery to his relatives. The crowd within the yard maintained a respectful silence, only broken by the shouts of the crowd outside, as the fact was announced that Majors had ceased to live.

UTAH.

Mum's the Word.

SALT LAKE, May 23.—Nellie White to-day was brought before Judge Hunter for refusing to answer questions asked by the grand jury. She was subpoenaed as a witness in a case of polygamy, but positively refused to answer any questions put to her. She has just married as third wife of Bishop Roundy. Her action is contempt, which she persists in maintaining saying she will go to the penitentiary rather than tell the secrets of the Mormon church.

RUSSIA.

PRINCE WILLIAM AT MOSCOW.

MOSCOW, May 23.—Prince William of Prussia arrived to-day from St. Petersburg. Crowds cheered him on his way to the Kremlin, where the prince will reside while in Moscow.

A CRUCIAL TEST.

The severe chemical tests to which the various baking powders have from time to time been placed have demonstrated clearly to the public the relative merits of the different brands from an analytical point of view. For instance, Dr. Love, the eminent government chemist, in his analyses, made the comparative strength as follows:

	Cubic Inches Gas evolved
"Royal" (cream of tartar powder)	127.04
"Charm" (alum powder)	116.9
"Dr Price's"	102.06
"Snow Flake" (Groff's)	101.88
"Pearl"	93.2

The Royal Baking Powder was found, besides being of absolute purity, to evolve the highest amount of leavening gas of any of the powders tested, and hence it was placed at the head of the list and recommended for government use.

But the critical test of the kitchen is, after all, the most satisfactory to the housekeeper. A baking powder that never fails to make light, sweet, wholesome and palatable bread, biscuit, cake, etc., upon all occasions, is the one that will be placed at the head of the list by the practical housewife, and received into her kitchen for continuous use. This test the Royal Baking Powder has stood for over twenty years without a single failure, and hence its reputation as the best baking powder made has spread from house to house, until its use has become as universal as its merits are unrivaled.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

More than 3000 men are at work on the Oregon Short Line railroad in the vicinity of Baker City and it is expected that through connection will be made by the first of October.

Western Oregon.

Independence is to have a bank controlled by J. B. Cooper.

Corvallis had a $600 fire last Monday, a dwelling occupied by a German family being consumed.

Says a Lafayette exchange: Hon. W. D. Fenton has measurably recovered from his recent illness, but is still quite weak.

On Friday morning, May 23, the annual conference of the Evangelical association in Oregon convened in the church of that denomination in Corvallis. Bishop R. Dubs, D. D., of Cleveland, Ohio, presides.

Fire consumed a dwelling house occupied by T. Little at Philomath on Monday, the 19th. The building was owned by F. M. Carter of the Siletz agency. The fire originated from a defective flue. The loss will amount to about $500.

W. H. Haines, of Eugene City, is tanning leather which he ships to San Francisco. It brings a price in advance of that of California leather. In this state there is a large amount of the most excellent tanning material which, if used as it might be would develop a great industry.

A son of F. M. Wadsworth, agent at the Siletz agency, was accidentally shot by his brother a few days since. The two boys were in the house playing with a loaded pistol, when it was discharged, the ball entering the shoulder of one of them. The wound, although a dangerous one, is not considered necessarily fatal.

The annual meeting of the pioneers of Linn county will be held at Sodaville on Friday, the 6th day of June, 1884. The object of the meeting is for the election of president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and also the promotion and manifestation of social and general feelings among its members. The meeting will continue Friday and Saturday. By request of the committee, the members of the association will come prepared to camp on the ground Friday night.

A man named Charles Bussel, while working in the foothills in Lane county, had the misfortune to cut his foot with an ax while chopping in the woods, the blow opening the bones to the ankle joint. He was alone and tried to walk out for help, but a misstep broke the bone entirely off, and further wild efforts sprained the other ankle. By crawling he got out far enough to raise assistance from William Cairns, who helped him into the house. A surgeon was summoned who dressed the limb, but it was doubtful whether he could save it or not. The young man was without means and application was made to the county authorities for assistance.

E. Martin, charged with grand larceny and whose trial at the last term resulted in a hung jury, stands committed in default of $1000 bail. So says a Walla Walla exchange.

McGee, the soldier recently arrested at Walla Walla for selling liquor to Indians, has been sentenced to serve twenty months in the United States penitentiary at Seatco.

A little son of Street Commissioner Brooks of Walla Walla swallowed a quantity of carbolic acid Tuesday, but escaped serious results through the prompt administering of the proper remedies.

George Carter, a feeble minded youth who explains his moral obliquity by saying he was broke and had to make a raise, was arrested in Yakima last week for the theft of a horse at Pendleton some time ago.

G. W. Dunlap, aged 61, died at St. Mary's hospital Wednesday night. Deceased was an old Californian—one of the pioneers of the coast—and well known throughout Oregon, Washington and Idaho as a miner.

Thursday night at Walla Walla, Sergeant Burt of L troop, First cavalry, dropped down in an apoplectic fit while passing the band stand after posting the 11 o'clock guard. Before assistance could be summoned he died.

A man living in Yakima valley was bitten on the end of his finger by a rattlesnake a few days ago. He instantly opened the wound with his knife so that it would bleed freely and then sucked the blood away. He is all right and has felt no effect of the poison.

While A. M. Wylie and his wife were in Goldendale last Saturday their dwelling in Pleasant valley was entirely consumed by fire, nothing but a bed and sewing machine being saved. Their meat, flour and other provisions being in another building were not lost. The fire caught from a defective stovepipe between the ceiling and roof.

Colfax Gazette: The latest from Washtucna lake indicates that water to the depth of about three feet now cover the rails. The building of the road has apparently closed a subterranean outlet, as the water continues to rise, having gained nearly six inches during the past two weeks. The force of men reported to have been sent to repair damages are working in a stone quarry near the lake. It is presumed they are getting out rock for the Northern Pacific.

Dayton Chronicle: From Mr. Thompson, who is hauling freight to Pomeroy, we learn that about 100 Umatilla Indians, with several hundred horses, were camped at Pomeroy Tuesday night on their return from digging cowse on the Tucannon. They procured whisky from some one, and a number of them became gloriously drunk, and a general row ensued in which a squaw was badly beaten and two of the siwashes were slashed with knives. How long before an example will be made of the miserable whelps who furnish Indians intoxicating beverages contrary to law.

The Lewiston Teller contains the account of the finding of the body of Robert Pringle, managing man in the construction of the Burnt river bridge across Snake river. The body was found thirty-eight days after drowning in a drift-pile four miles below Lewiston. The singular feature of this incident is that the body should have drifted through Snake river canyon a distance of 150 miles before it found a resting place.

ANOTHER DEFENSE OF GOVERNOR THAYER.

PORTLAND, May 22, 1884.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A correspondent, "Observer," in your issue of yesterday, attacks Governor Thayer on the grounds that he violated the law in allowing entries of large bodies of swamp land by individuals, and that he is a violent political partisan.

It appears to me this attack is unwarranted on either of those grounds. As to the first, it is unjust because the acts complained of were those of the board of land commissioners, and not of the governor, as will clearly appear by reference to the law. Sections 1 and 2 of the act of 1878, pages 41 and 42, confer on the governor authority, as land commissioner, in the language of the law, "to locate all the lands to which the state is entitled, under the laws of the United States or otherwise; to prepare accurate lists of the lands by him selected in duplicate in the manner prescribed by the laws of the United States and the instructions of the commissioner of the general land office, and designate in such lists the purpose to which the lands selected shall be applied, one copy of which he shall forward to the register of the land office in the district where the lands selected are situated, the other shall be deposited with the secretary of state." And section 33 of the same law, page 54, provides that "the governor may appoint an agent to select all lands donated to this state by the United States." This law confers on the governor all the power and authority he possesses as land commissioner.

Sections 3, 4 and 5 of the same law, pages 42 and 43, provide that "the governor, secretary of state and state treasurer, as a board of commissioners for the sale of school and university lands, and for the investment of the funds arising therefrom, are hereby authorized and required to sell swamp and overflowed lands which may have been or may hereafter be selected. All applications to purchase any of the lands of this state shall be addressed to the said board of commissioners."

And the complaint is unjust to the board because its assumptions are untrue. The board, as appears from the above quotations, consists of the governor, secretary of state and state treasurer.

While Thayer was governor the present incumbents, Earhart and Hirsch, both republicans, were holding respectively the offices of secretary of state and state treasurer. At the expiration of Thayer's term in 1882 Governor Moody took his place.

The governor, except as a member of said board, has nothing to do with selling or permitting entries of lands. All applications must be made to the board, and the board only can make sales or permit entries.

I understand that when applications for swamp lands had been made under the act of 1870, and the provisions of that law complied with by the applicant, the board had no right or power to disregard them, and as the rights of the applicants had to be respected the old board concluded, and very justly it seems to me, that the interests of the state would be best promoted by requiring such applicants to come forward and pay their money into the treasury that the state might reap some benefit therefrom.

The present board take the same view of both the law and the interests of the state, and are doing the same that the old board did. But no applications, I understand, have been received by the board since the passage of the law of 1878, cited above and by "Observer," or the beginning of Thayer's term of office. All the proceedings complained of have been upon applications, filed before that time. Nor does it appear to me that Governor Thayer's course can be justly characterized as partisan, on the contrary it would seem liberal. He appointed one republican as supreme judge, another as circuit judge and another as state printer, and others to less important positions. And other republicans view this as I do, else why should Uncle Jesse Applegate have proposed his name and six of our delegates voted for his nomination in our convention. I was a member of the convention that gave Mr. Flinn his present nomination and voted for him in that convention, but I should dislike to have him elected at the expense of unjust attacks upon the official character and integrity of faithful public servants, such as Governor Thayer, Governor Moody, Secretary Earhart and Treasurer Hirsch have shown themselves to be.

In conclusion, I object to placing Mr. Flinn's canvass on grounds that will require the election of Mr. Thayer to vindicate the official actions of all our republican state officers. Respectfully yours,

REPUBLICAN.

FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

PORTLAND, May 22.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

When Wendell Phillips and William Lloyd Garrison appeared in public and advocated the emancipation of the black men, they were ridiculed, abused, and even maltreated. They had to contend with the prejudice, ignorance and selfishness of the masses; in short, they and their doctrine were extremely unpopular; but how gloriously did they overcome those gigantic obstacles. It is hardly three score years since, and we have not only liberated, if I am right, nearly four millions of slaves, but given to them the highest privilege which can be granted to a citizen of this, the foremost of all republics, the ballot.

And yet, in consideration of all these facts, we see to-day, at the close of the nineteenth century, in this age of reason, the same weapons, namely—prejudice, ignorance and selfishness—used to defeat measures which would grant to our wives, mothers and daughters the privileges we gave twenty years ago to several millions of poor, ignorant and inexperienced negroes. Is it possible that a single voter whose mind is sound—who has any sense of justice or humanity—should prefer an ignorant ex-slave to his wife, sister or daughter, to vote for men and measures which ought to do the greatest good to the greatest number? No! Only ignorance, selfishness and meanness can account for such an act. If, at the next election, the ballot shall be refused to our better halves—or, more poetically speaking, to the fair sex—we might as well call out with Carl Heinzen: "Humanity! thou hast lost thy conscience or thy reason." Thou givest to the lowest and the most ignorant that which thou deniest to thy own better self. Thou puttest thy daughters, wives and sisters upon a level with the criminal, idiot or minor, who are deprived of the ballot, and thou violatest the spirit and letter of the declaration of independence, which decrees that all men are created equal! Voters! Beware; think well before you act; do not allow yourselves to be carried away by prejudice, sophistry and ridicule. Be just and fear not. Show to our eastern brethren that we in the far west are marching in the van of civilization, and take the lead in the march to liberty, justice, and universal brother- and sisterhood. Remember the greatest, the noblest minds of all nations have been and are yet in favor of woman suffrage, and that the most ignorant, the most selfish, superstitious, and the most bigoted are against it. On the one side you see the goddess of justice, with her eyes open, not blindfolded, holding the scales and adding all that is noble in favor of woman to the balance, in order to raise her to and above the level of the slave whose emancipation has elevated; and all that is good and noble in man applauds her, while on the other hand she reaps the curses of all who are mean, ignoble and ignorant. Voter, can you hesitate? Will you go against everything that is dear to you? Against your own flesh and blood? I hope not!

PASTORS' MEETING.

The above meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Thursday afternoon, eight pastors being present, with Dr. Lindsley in the chair. The meeting opened with prayer. Edw. O. Sharpe was chosen secretary pro tem.

The matter of raising funds for temperance work, which was referred by the Temperance Alliance to the pastors of the city, was disposed of by recommending that each minister use his discretion in the manner of securing funds in each congregation.

A circular letter from the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, calling on all Christian people to observe Tuesday, May 27, as a day of prayer, was read, with the request that the pastors of the city assist in conducting the exercises in the W. C. T. U. hall on that day, and also preach on to-morrow or next Lord's day on "God in Government."

A motion to comply with these requests was passed and the following programme arranged for next Tuesday, the day of prayer:

1. From 10 to 11 A. M.—Subject, "For the Ladies of the W. C. T. U." Led by Rev. G. W. Izer.
2. From 11 to 12 M.—"For Christian Pastors and Editors." Led by Rev. Chaplain Stubbs.
3. From 1 to 2 P. M.—"For the Platforms of Parties." Led by Rev. J. Q. A. Henry.
4. From 2 to 3 P. M.—"For the Presidential Candidates." Led by Edward O. Sharpe.
5. From 3 to 4 P. M.—"For the Christian Voters of the Republic, with Whom Rests the Balance of Power." Led by Rev. E. Trumbull Lee.

All are most cordially invited to attend these services.

The meeting was adjourned with prayer by Rev. Mr. Henry.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 24, 1884.

BUNKO, PAST AND PRESENT.

Ferdinand Ward, who did rascally work to a fabulous extent in the name of General Grant, has brought up in jail. He may, possibly, be in a way of getting his deserts. It is a lamentable fact that the chief capital of the firm was the great name of General Grant, which was used without compunction to float schemes of colossal rascality. The house did no business in a legitimate way. Fortunately, therefore, it is unscrupulous speculators chiefly who are robbed. But still there is no wonder that General Grant, as our dispatches tell us, feels deeply humiliated. His name has been used as a decoy by a bold though clumsy swindler. No doubt Grant was in the association for the benefit of his sons, and is to be held blameless for the actual transactions; but he cannot be held blameless for going into or at least for remaining in a partnership which he should have known, from Ward's movements, could not have been doing a legitimate and honorable business.

The real nature of the "business" of Grant & Ward "consisted in discounting the fanciful prospects of imaginary profits to be derived from fictitious contracts, founded on manufactured or artificial contributions of altogether imaginary money." It was, in other words, a confidence game of vast proportions. Liabilities are footed up at over fourteen millions of dollars.

The South sea bubble and the Mississippi scheme were famous in their day, but millions dwindled into nothing in a moment, and after all was over people wondered how any thinking man could ever have been induced to go into such speculations. Like them also was the really baseless Transcontinental enterprise, which recently victimized so many persons in Portland and elsewhere. They who lost by it now contemplate with amazement their own gullibility. Dukes and duchesses went on their knees to beg shares in John Law's scheme, and men contended with each other and paid high premiums to get into Villard's Transcontinental. Not at all times, but at frequently recurring periods, these things are possible. Why men should, at intervals, so lose their heads, is an unfathomable mystery. But even the wisest and most conservative are not proof against the folly.

It was the name of General Grant, undoubtedly, that gave the firm of Grant & Ward its credit, for Grant's name has been taken as the synonym of all that was stable and solid in business and in affairs. Everything that the firm did was as imaginative and extravagant as the credit basis upon which it speculated. At first it was thought that $3,000 per month was sufficient for the individual expenses of the firm, but in a very short time the magnificent Ward found that in order to satisfy his splendid tastes and properly spend his imaginative earnings it would require $500,000 per year—which he seems to have taken. But Ward, who dealt with millions, as if he were a veritable Count of Monte Cristo, managed to dazzle the eyes of his customers so that they rushed to him with their fortunes. Business men whose friends have not yet applied for commissions of lunacy in their behalf intrusted the firm with $50,000, $70,000, $150,000 as if these sums (which to sober people represented fortunes) were a mere bagatelle.

Says the New York Times upon this state of affairs: "One man intrusted the firm with $50,000 by way of a flyer. When he was told, to his amazement, that the sum of $200,000, representing his original investment and its profits, stood to his credit, he nervously asked for a check for the amount, which he promptly got. Is it surprising that this favored son of fortune put back into 'the pool' the money that he had so miraculously made? If men speak well of the bridge that carries them over how natural it is that they should trust a concern that quadruples their investments in a few months. But safe business men—not mere plodding workers—might have suspected it would seem, that no legitimate operations could pay dividends so enormous as this."

Sensible and witty women like Gail Hamilton were caught in Mrs. Howe's famous Women's Bank, which promised 8 per cent. a month; Good business men were caught by Ward through the simple fact that the prospect of big earnings make men idiotic. When we find very sensible men believing in the greenback theory we may expect them to be caught by any financial vagary. The whole Grant-Ward scheme was a vanity fair whirl in which the fool and the wise man joined. This is an era of speculation, and a very little deceives us. The man with his few dollars trusts the bucket shop, and he with his millions is caught by a name. Proper confidence is the basis of everything—financial and governmental. But a foolish confidence is not justifiable. Ward is certainly a rascal, but at the same time should the business man who made such a fiasco possible be pitied? This bubble is a wonderful one. It has not shaken public confidence nor made more than a ripple in the steady current of our finances—still if it points the moral that legitimate gains can only come from honest labor and teaches men not to speculate upon the possibilities of credit or the potency of a name—it will not be in vain.

Swindlers find their opportunity in the greed of those who make haste to be rich. The "bunko man" is really the product of his environment. Where people are willing and ready to be "bunkoed" he always appears.

BUTLER AS A POSSIBILITY.

Butler favors the committee of the anti-monopoly party with a letter, in which he accepts the nomination tendered him by their convention held at Chicago last week. He tells them he "concurs in each measure of public policy set forth in the resolutions." That is, he accepts the demand for "the fostering care of the government" for pretty much everything under the sun. A party which has the monopoly of so many absurd notions should not call itself an anti-monopoly party. As a beneficiary of tariff monopoly, which has made him a millionaire, Butler is now in a position to advance to new schemes of conquest.

This little enterprise is, in fact, preliminary to an effort by Butler to carry off the democratic nomination. That he has such design is apparent. It was supposed till recently that he would again be a candidate for governor of Massachusetts, confident from the heavy vote he received last year, that he could be elected upon another effort. Would he accept this so-called anti-monopoly nomination for the presidency, and so put aside his contemplated candidacy in Massachusetts if he did not entertain some expectations of getting the nomination for the presidency at the hands of the democratic convention?

Many democrats may scout this, even as a possibility, but has not their party done more unexpected and improbable things? Should Butler be nominated, it is by no means clear that he would be an easy man to beat. The surprising vote he obtained last year in Massachusetts indicates that there might be difficulty about it.

The New York Herald calls pointed attention to the number and extent of the "preferences" that have been created in the recent assignments at New York, and denounces them as mere devices to secure the property to debtors or their families. The Herald properly describes the transactions as frauds and flagrant abuses. They resemble, we suppose, many of the assignments under the Oregon law.

To make sure that there shall be a republican legislature it is quite necessary for republicans to see to it that the democrats are not allowed to have five members from this county. That is, it becomes necessary to see that the "fusion" programme is surely beaten.

THE CIRCUS.

The elephant now goes round,
The band begins to play.

A few years ago the genial writer who occupies the "Easy Chair" of Harper's Magazine described the circus which he had attended in the country somewhere, during his summer vacation. The article was full of those touches of nature which make the whole world kin. It was both a picture and a poem. It represented all that a common spectator sees in a circus in the country, and suggested much that only the rare insight of the poetic mood can see. The article is too long to quote, but the following extract will raise a responsive thrill in the heart of every reader who has not left his youth very far behind him:

"Well, here it is again," as the clown says; the old, familiar smell. One whiff and we are all children once more. It is a mingling of tan-yard and stable and menagerie; but it is unmistakable. And all around it arise a bank of spectacles. It is midsummer and it is not a sombre audience. The women and children are in light dresses; the men in drilling coats, and often in shirt sleeves. Everybody has a small palm-leaf fan, and there is a half-dizzy flutter in the aspect of the audience. But such eager attention! We walk slowly along, and there are no seats. People upon the lower benches only wish that we would get out of the way, and not hide the view. Down go the younger members upon the grass at the edges of the ring, and the elders squeeze in somewhere and modestly and immediately wish that the next comers would get out of the way and not hide the view. And there is the same old ring and the same old clown and the same old double checked, slowly cantering horse; and there is the same old Mr. Merryman "My sweetheart says—I has a sweetheart," (and we are all delighted at the droll fellow's humor) "my sweetheart says, 'You'd better not keep your cap on 'fore folks,' and she snakes it off—so." 'Tis irresistible.

It is a sign of a broad and unspoiled nature to be amused with what amuses "everybody." "The human race taken in mass," said Victor Hugo, "is an honest man." Taken in mass, too, it is a kindly and decent man. If it is not pleased with super-refinements, neither does it enjoy what is essentially brutal and vulgar. The vast crowds of average men and women which a good circus never fails to draw is a sufficient proof that the entertainment does not deserve the contempt or opprobrium which, in certain quarters, it has been the fashion to heap upon it. Those city people who have become so saturated with culture that they can see nothing amusing in what delights the rural masses, have become a little too cultivated for some of the best instincts and uses of humanity. It is a curious fact that while, in this country, they "of the best rank and station" have been often pleased to frown upon the circus as a vulgar show, in Europe it is about the only American thing which excites general enthusiasm. Across the water where it is said that nobody reads an American book and nobody buys an American picture everybody attends the American hippodrome. We were told by an eye witness that when Barnum's great circus visited The Hague the whole population (that could raise the Dutch for of a half dollar) thronged to the exhibition. The nobility graced the scene with their presence, the art school was given a holiday while the artists, who abound in the city, deserted their studios en masse in order to enjoy and to profit by what they considered the most classical entertainment which the world had known since the Olympic and Isthmian games.

It is pleasant to reflect that the pious or prudish stigma which has been so long attached to the circus in this its native home has largely disappeared. The mind craves amusement and to a majority of our rural population, at least, the advent of the circus affords the only opportunity of the year for that full relaxation of the nervous system which comes from entertainments of a novel or grotesque character, presenting scenes fantastically different from those of daily life. Dickens expressed this thought when he made the inimitable Sleary say: "People muth be amuthed. They can't be al wayth a-learning, nor they can't be alwayth a-working; they ain't made for it. You mutht have uth. Do the withe thing and the kind thing, too, and make the betht of uth, not the wortht." The charge that circus people are especially given to vice and dissipation is probably a mistake, for no profession in the world requires greater care and watchfulness lest the nerves become unstrung or the energy and suppleness of the body in any way impaired. They are, indeed, as a rule, long lived and seem never to become superannuated. As a class they are a light hearted set of people, and they die in bed. "Both men and women generally marry young," says Frost, but the latter go on riding or rope-dancing until they are superseded by younger ones, and their husbands ride, vault, tumble or juggle until their

The circuses which we have attended have been usually very free from immoral suggestions. The lady riders' skirts may have been a trifle too short and the jokes of the clown a trifle broad, but the fresh breezes coming through the tent and the healthful life of the performing men and animals seemed to make these trifles "light as air," and just as harmless. It is one of the oldest forms of popular amusement—as old as the athletic delights of the infancy of man, when life itself, healthful animal life without the environment of modern civilization, was a thing to be enjoyed, as the young animal or child of to-day enjoys the first consciousness of its own physical powers. But whether we ought to ponder seriously over the moral or immoral influences of the circus or not, whether we endeavor to solve the secret of its increasing popularity or refer it back to the scene itself in and around the tents (as Sir Edward Landseer referred the secret which so long troubled him, why dogs almost always howl when they hear a wind instrument, back to the dog's eyes), however we may reason about the matter, we confess that in feeling we are like children again, and have an almost irresistible impulse to stand or sit around the sawdust ring when "the band begins to play."

A REGISTRY LAW.

This state ought to have a registry law. It has for a long time been talked of; indeed it has been mooted at different times during the last twenty years. Usually the principal opposition to it has come from the counties of large area, where representatives have objected that such law would put their people to great expense of time and trouble. The most hopeful effort yet made to enact such law was that of 1874. That year there was no senatorial election to take up the time of the session. Friends of the measure succeeded in passing it through the house, and it went to the senate, where it was killed by the democrats who controlled that branch of the assembly. Jewell of Umatilla moved to postpone it indefinitely. Braley of Yamhill sustained the motion vigorously, and it was carried, though the senators from this county (Dolph and Hirsch) voted against postponement as did all other republican senators with two exceptions During the last twenty years the democrats have controlled the legislature much more frequently than the republicans, and as a rule have been much more averse to a registry law. It is impossible, therefore, for them to shirk their full share—which is the larger share—of the responsibility for the non-enactment of such a law. But now, if all parties are agreed that a registry law should be enacted, there ought to be no difficulty; in any event, about getting it.

Our correspondent finds a more encouraging state of things in Eagle City than he found on the occasion of his first visit, last winter, and proceeds to tell with exactness and particularity of what he sees. If the ledges shall be found as good as he believes, the fact will cut some figure in the business of this section, and possibly help us to be the liveliest corner of the country in a dull year. Let us hope so.

The St. Paul Pioneer-Press believes that there is scarcely less divergence of views among republicans than among democrats on the tariff question, and declares that, "with the exception of the loyal Minnesota members," the republican congressmen from the northwest have not voiced the opinion of the masses of the party. The Pioneer-Press perceives "stirrings of great changes in the air," and believes that a readjustment of party lines on the tariff question is going to surprise the country one of these days.

The Atlantic for June has an article on the "new party," in which it is said: "Another presidential nomination is at hand, and it does not require much sagacity, in view of past events, to prophesy that the demands of the new party will be pressed more urgently than ever, and that there exists a widespread determination to vote against any candidate who stands for 'machine government' in the public eye. Such a man will certainly not get the votes of those quiet citizens who so disagreeably go down to the polls and vote a party out of power, to the surprise of everybody. There is a huge giant lying beneath the political surface and when he is uncomfortable and moves his bulky form, like Enceladus under Ætna, according to the old mythology, there is likely to be considerable fire and lava thrown up, and some political burials under the ashes of the volcano."

President Eliot, of Harvard college, discusses in the June Century the question, "What is a Liberal Education?" Among other things he makes a strong plea for the study of English, and in a historical review of the changes in university curricula shows what a hard fight was necessary to procure the introduction of Greek three centuries ago.

THE OREGONIAN observes, but with more curiosity than concern, that its course as a public journal does not come up to Brother Yocum's standard of propriety. It will try not to reach the brother's standard, since the most notable event in his career was his expulsion from the common council of Portland for indecent behavior in a bagnio.

Failure of "fusion" will throw a heavy stock of damaged political goods back on the hands of the proprietors—the ex-sheriffs and ex-clerks. There will be Yocum and Gaston and Theodore Matlock and George P. Beley, with a large and varied assortment of shady principles. Ben Norden can auction off the lot.

A Washington friend of Jay Gould says that in a recent conversation with him, speaking about the hazards of Wall street, he was informed that he (Gould) had $1,500,000 in government bonds and good securities in his wife's name against a rainy day.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 24, 1884.

BUNKO, PAST AND PRESENT.

Ferdinand Ward, who did rascally work to a fabulous extent in the name of General Grant, has brought up in jail. He may, possibly, be in a way of getting his deserts. It is a lamentable fact that the chief capital of the firm was the great name of General Grant, which was used without compunction to float schemes of colossal rascality. The house did no business in a legitimate way. Fortunately, therefore, it is unscrupulous speculators chiefly who are robbed. But still there is no wonder that General Grant, as our dispatches tell us, feels deeply humiliated. His name has been used as a decoy by a bold though clumsy swindler. No doubt Grant was in the association for the benefit of his sons, and is to be held blameless for the actual transactions; but he cannot be held blameless for going into, or at least for remaining in, a partnership which he should have known, from Ward's movements, could not have been doing a legitimate and honorable business.

The real nature of the "business" of Grant & Ward "consisted in discounting the fanciful prospects of imaginary profits to be derived from fictitious contracts, founded on manufactured or artificial contributions of altogether imaginary money." It was, in other words, a confidence game of vast proportions. Liabilities are footed up at over fourteen millions of dollars.

The South Sea bubble and the Mississippi scheme were famous in their day; but millions dwindled into nothing in a moment, and after all was over people wondered how any thinking man could ever have been induced to go into such speculations. Like them also was the really baseless Transcontinental enterprise, which recently victimized so many persons in Portland and elsewhere. They who lost by it now contemplate with amazement their own gullibility. Dukes and duchesses went on their knees to beg shares in John Law's scheme, and men contended with each other and paid high premiums to get into Villard's Transcontinental. Not at all times, but at frequently recurring periods, these things are possible. Why men should, at intervals, so lose their heads, is an unfathomable mystery. But even the wisest and most conservative are not proof against the folly.

It was the name of General Grant, undoubtedly, that gave the firm of Grant & Ward its credit, for Grant's name has been taken as the synonym of all that was stable and solid in business and in affairs. Everything that the firm did was as imaginative and extravagant as the credit basis upon which it speculated. At first it was thought that $3,000 per month was sufficient for the individual expenses of the firm, but in a very short time the magnificent Ward found that in order to satisfy his splendid tastes and properly spend his imaginative earnings it would require $500,000 per year—which he seems to have taken. But Ward, who dealt with millions, as if he were a veritable Count of Monte Cristo, managed to dazzle the eyes of his customers so that they rushed to him with their fortunes. Business men whose friends have not yet applied for commissions of lunacy in their behalf intrusted the firm with $50,000, $70,000, $150,000 as if these sums (which to sober people represented fortunes) were a mere bagatelle.

Says the New York Times upon this state of affairs: "One man intrusted the firm with $50,000 by way of a flyer. When he was told, to his amazement, that the sum of $250,000, representing his original investment and its profits, stood to his credit, he nervously asked for a check for the amount, which he promptly got. Is it surprising that this favored son of fortune put back into 'the pool' the money that he had so miraculously made? If men speak well of the bridge that carries them over how natural it is that they should trust a concern that quadruples their investments in a few months. But safe business men—not mere plodding workers—might have suspected, it would seem, that no legitimate operations could pay dividends so enormous as this."

Sensible and witty women like Gail Hamilton were caught in Mrs. Howe's famous Woman's Bank which promised 8 per cent. a month. Good business men were caught by Ward through the simple fact that the prospect of big earnings make men idiotic. When we find very sensible men believing in the greenback theory we may expect them to be caught by any financial vagary. The whole Grant-Ward scheme was a vanity fair whirl in which the fool and the wise man joined. This is an era of speculation, and a very little deceives us. The man with his few dollars trusts the bucket shop, and he with his millions is caught by a name. Proper confidence is the basis of everything—financial and governmental. But a foolish confidence is not justifiable. Ward is certainly a rascal, but at the same time should the business man who made such a failure possible be pitied? This bubble is a wonderful one. It has not shaken public confidence nor made more than a ripple in the steady current of our finances—still if it points the moral that legitimate gains can only come from honest labor and teaches men not to speculate upon the possibilities of credit or the potency of a name—it will not be in vain.

Swindlers find their opportunity in the greed of those who make haste to be rich. The "bunko man" is really the product of his environment. Where people are willing and ready to be "bunkoed" he always appears.

BUTLER AS A POSSIBILITY.

Butler favors the committee of the anti-monopoly party with a letter, in which he accepts the nomination tendered him by their convention held at Chicago last week. He tells them he concurs in each measure of public policy set forth in the resolutions. That is, he accepts the demand for "the fostering care of the government" for pretty much everything under the sun. A party which has the monopoly of so many absurd notions should not call itself an anti-monopoly party. As a beneficiary of tariff monopoly, which has made him a millionaire, Butler is now in a position to advance to men, schemes of conquest.

This little enterprise is, in fact, preliminary to an effort by Butler to carry off the democratic nomination. That he has such design is apparent. It was supposed till recently that he would again be a candidate for governor of Massachusetts, confident from the heavy vote he received last year, that he could be elected upon another effort. Would he accept this so-called anti-monopoly nomination for the presidency, and so put aside his contemplated candidacy in Massachusetts, if he did not entertain some expectations of getting the nomination for the presidency at the hands of the democratic convention?

Many democrats may scout this, even as a possibility, but has not their party done more unexpected and improbable things? Should Butler be nominated, it is by no means clear that he would be an easy man to beat. The surprising vote he obtained last year in Massachusetts indicates that there might be difficulty about it.

The New York Herald calls pointed attention to the number and extent of the "preferences" that have been created in the recent assignments at New York, and denounces them as mere devices to secure the property to debtors or their families. The Herald properly describes the transactions as frauds and flagrant abuses. They resemble, we suppose, many of the assignments under the Oregon law.

To make sure that there shall be a republican legislature it is quite necessary for republicans to see to it that the democrats are not allowed to have five members from this county. That is, it becomes necessary to see that the "fusion" programme is surely beaten.

THE CIRCUS.

The elephant now goes round,
The band begins to play.

A few years ago the genial writer who occupies the "Easy Chair" of Harper's Magazine described the circus which he had attended in the country somewhere, during his summer vacation. The article was full of those touches of nature which make the whole world kin. It was both a picture and a poem. It represented all that a common spectator sees in a circus in the country, and suggested much that only the rare insight of the poetic mood can see. The article is too long to quote, but the following extract will raise a responsive thrill in the heart of every reader who has not left his youth very far behind him:

> "Well, here it is again," as the clown says; the old, familiar smell. One whiff and we are all children once more. It is a mingling of tan-yard and stable and menagerie; but it is unmistakable. And all around the ring is a rising bank of spectacles. It is mid-summer and it is not a sombre audience. The women and children are in light dresses; the men in drilling coats, and often in shirt sleeves. Everybody has a small palm-leaf fan, and there is a half-dizzy flutter in the aspect of the audience. But such eager attention! We walk slowly along, and there are no seats. People upon the lower benches only wish that we would get out of the way, and not hide the view. Down go the younger members upon the grass at the edges of the ring, and the elders squeeze in somewhere and modestly and immediately wish that the next comers would get out of the way and not hide the view. And there is the same old ring and the same old clown and the same old double checked, slowly cantering horse; and there is the eirie old Mr. Merryman. "My sweetheart says—I have a sweetheart," (and we are all delighted at the droll fellow's humor) "my sweetheart says, 'You'd better not keep your cap on 'fore folks,' and she snakes it off—so." 'Tis irresistible.

It is a sign of a broad and unspoiled nature to be amused with what amuses "everybody." "The human race taken in mass," said Victor Hugo, "is an honest man." Taken in mass, too, it is a kindly and decent man. If it is not pleased with super-refinements, neither does it enjoy what is essentially brutal and vulgar. The vast crowds of average men and women which a good circus never fails to draw is a sufficient proof that the entertainment does not deserve the contempt or opprobrium which, in certain quarters, it has been the fashion to heap upon it. Those city people who have become so saturated with culture that they can see nothing amusing in what delights the rural masses, have become a little too cultivated for some of the best instincts and uses of humanity. It is a curious fact that while, in this country, they "of the best rank and station" have been often pleased to frown upon the circus as a vulgar show, in Europe it is about the only American thing which excites general enthusiasm. Across the water where it is said that nobody reads an American book and nobody buys an American picture everybody attends the American hippodrome. We were told by an eye witness that when Barnum's great circus visited The Hague the whole population (that could raise the Dutch for of a half dollar) thronged to the exhibition. The nobility graced the scene with their presence, the art school was given a holiday while the artists, who abound in the city, deserted their studios en masse in order to enjoy and to profit by what they considered the most classical entertainment which the world had known since the Olympic and Isthmian games.

It is pleasant to reflect that the pious or prudish stigma which has been so long attached to the circus in this its native home has largely disappeared. The mind craves amusement and to a majority of our rural population, at least, the advent of the circus affords the only opportunity of the year for that full relaxation of the nervous system which comes from entertainments of a novel or grotesque character, presenting scenes fantastically different from those of daily life. Dickens expressed this thought when he made the inimitable Sleary say "People mutht be amuthed. They can't be alwayth a-learning, nor they can't be alwayth a-working; they ain't made for it. You mutht have uth. Do the withe thing and the kind thing, too, and make the betht of uth, not the wortht." The charge that circus people are especially given to vice and dissipation is probably a mistake, for no profession in the world requires greater care and watchfulness lest the nerves become unstrung or the energy and suppleness of the body in any way impaired. They are, indeed, as a rule, long lived and seem never to become superannuated. As a class they are a light hearted set of people, and they die in bed. "Both men and women generally marry young," says Frost, but the latter go on riding or rope-dancing until they are superseded by younger ones, and their husbands ride, vault, tumble or juggle until their

The circuses which we have attended have been usually very free from immoral suggestions. The lady rider's skirts may have been a trifle too short, and the jokes of the clown a trifle broad, but the fresh breezes coming through the tent and the health of life of the performing men and animals seemed to make these trifles "light as air," and just as harmless. It is one of the oldest forms of popular amusement—as old as the athletic delights of the infancy of man, when life, itself, healthful animal life without the environment of modern civilization, was a thing to be enjoyed, as the young animal or child of to-day enjoys the first consciousness of its own physical powers. But whether we ought to ponder seriously over the moral or immoral influence of the circus or not, whether we endeavor to solve the secret of its increasing popularity or refer it back to the scene itself in and around the tents (as Sir Edward Landseer referred the secret which so long troubled him, why dogs almost always howl when they hear a wind instrument, back to the dog's eyes), however we may reason about the matter, we confess that in feeling we are like children again, and have an almost irresistible impulse to stand or sit around the sawdust ring when "the band begins to play."

A REGISTRY LAW.

This state ought to have a registry law. It has for a long time been talked of; indeed it has been mooted at different times during the last twenty years. Usually the principal opposition to it has come from the counties of large area, where representatives have objected that such law would put their people to great expense of time and trouble. The most hopeful effort yet made to enact such law was that of 1874. That year there was no senatorial election to take up the time of the session. Friends of the measure succeeded in passing it through the house, and it went to the senate, where it was killed by the democrats who controlled that branch of the assembly. Jewell of Umatilla moved to postpone it indefinitely. Braley of Yamhill sustained the motion vigorously, and it was carried, though the senators from this county (Dolph and Hirsch) voted against postponement, as did all other republican senators with two exceptions. During the last twenty years the democrats have controlled the legislature much more frequently than the republicans, and as a rule have been much more averse to a registry law. It is impossible, therefore, for them to shirk their full share—which is the larger share—of the responsibility for the non-enactment of such a law. But now, if all parties are agreed that a registry law should be enacted, there ought to be no difficulty, in any event, about getting it.

Our correspondent finds a more encouraging state of things in Eagle City than he found on the occasion of his first visit, last winter, and proceeds to tell with exactness and particularity of what he sees. If the ledges shall be found as good as he believes, the fact will cut some figure in the business of this section, and possibly help us to be the liveliest center of the country in a dull year. Let us hope so.

The St. Paul Pioneer-Press believes, that there is scarcely less divergence of views among republicans than among democrats on the tariff question, and declares that, "with the exception of the loyal Minnesota members," the republican congressmen from the northwest have not voiced the opinion of the masses of the party. The Pioneer-Press perceives "stirrings of great changes in the air," and believes that a readjustment of party lines on the tariff question is going to surprise the country one of these days.

The Atlantic for June has an article on the "new party," in which it is said: "Another presidential nomination is at hand, and it does not require much sagacity, in view of past events, to prophesy that the demands of the new party will be pressed more urgently than ever, and that there exists a widespread determination to vote against any candidate who stands for 'machine government' in the public eye. Such a man will certainly not get the votes of those quiet citizens who so disagreeably go down to the polls and vote a party out of power, to the surprise of everybody. There is a huge giant lying beneath the political surface and when he is uncomfortable and moves his bulky form, like Enceladus under Ætna, according to the old mythology, there is likely to be considerable fire and lava thrown up, and some political burials under the ashes of the volcano."

President Eliot, of Harvard college, discusses in the June Century the question, "What is a Liberal Education?" Among other things he makes a strong plea for the study of English, and in a historical review of the changes in university curricula shows what a hard fight was necessary to procure the introduction of Greek three centuries ago.

THE CHRONICLE observes, but with more curiosity than concern, that its course as a public journal does not come up to Brother Yocum's standard of propriety. It will try not to reach the brother's standard, since the most notable event in his career was his expulsion from the common council of Portland for indecent behavior in a bagnio.

Failure of "fusion" will throw a heavy stock of damaged political goods back on the hands of the proprietors—the ex-sheriffs and ex-clerks. There will be Yocum and Gaston and Theodore Matlock and George P. Riley, with a large and varied assortment of easy principles. Ben Norden can auction off the lot.

A Washington friend of Jay Gould says that in a recent conversation with him, speaking about the hazards of Wall street, he was informed that he (Gould) had $1,500,000 in government bonds and good securities in his wife's name against a rainy day.

U. S. MARSHAL'S SALE.—In the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon. In Admiralty. The Steam Ferry Boat "Albina," Nathan Hackett, et al, Libelants. United States of America, District of Oregon, ss.—Whereas, an order was made on the 8th day of May, 1884, by the Honorable Matthew P. Deady, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, in a cause therein pending, wherein Nathan Hackett, et al, are libelants against the steam Ferry Boat "Albina," her tackle, apparel, machinery and furniture, commanding that the said steam Ferry Boat "Albina," her tackle, apparel, machinery and furniture, should be sold by the Marshal of the United States for said District, as the property of the defendant in an action at law, pursuant to the interlocutory judgment and decree of said court, made and entered on the 8th day of May, 1884, and that the money arising from such sale be paid to the Clerk of said court on the first Monday of June, 1884—Now, therefore, I hereby give notice that, in pursuance of said order, I will, on Tuesday, the 27th day of May, 1884, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the wharf near the ferry landing, at Albina, in said District, where said vessel now lies, sell the said Steam Ferry Boat "Albina," her tackle, apparel, machinery and furniture, at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash in hand.
Dated at Portland, in said District, this 8th day of May, 1884.
EDWARD S. KEARNEY,
United States Marshal, District of Oregon.

CONTEMPT OF AUTHORITY.—The store of Sing Lung & Co at No 29 Alder street has been for several days in the hands of the United States marshal by virtue of suits begun against the bankrupt firm by certain San Francisco creditors. Yesterday from the commotion going on within the place, and from the number of gibbering heathen on the outside trying to find out what was the matter, one might reasonably have thought that a large sized dispute for the possession of the place was in active progress. In truth Attorney Gleason and Constable Dan Sprague were trying to carry off some of the goods in the store and through some misunderstanding they met with a determined opposition It seems that just before the failure of the Chinese firm, Murphy Grant & Co had delivered to them some dry goods for which they brought an action in replevin and got a judgment by default Constable Sprague started to take the goods and met with resistance as above stated Gleason advised the constable as to his legal rights and was ejected from the store by the forces of the marshal After this little episode the matter was amicably settled Murphy Grant & Co got their goods and the rest of the stock in the store is still in the marshal's possession

MOUNT HOOD IMPROVEMENT COMPANY —There were filed yesterday in the office of County Clerk Sewall articles of incorporation of the Mount Hood and Lost Lake Improvement Company who have organized with a capital stock of $50,000 in shares of the par value of $100 each. The incorporators are Charles P Chamberlin, James Casey, Edward Lyons B P Walling J H Woodward and H S Rowe They have recognized the possibilities in the not very distant future of the country about Mount Hood and Lost lake being visited by large numbers of tourists and pleasure seekers and propose to establish roads from Hood River station on the O R & N Co's line, to Lost lake, in Wasco county thence to the base of Mount Hood and thence to the summit, also establishing such hotels way stations and other improvements along this route as may be for the comfort of tourists and hunters as well as for the financial bottom fit of the company They are undoubtedly the first in the field, or more properly speaking on the mountain and have already taken steps to obtain from congress the right of way over all government lands for their roads

ALLEGED DEFAMATION OF CHARACTER —Mrs Brown, who writes her name by means of an attorney and a "sawbuck" mark has brought suit in the state circuit court against James Wilson to recover $20,000 damages for alleged defamation of character In her complaint Mrs Brown says that Wilson called her vile abusive and obscene names—the language being specified—in the presence of a large number of people, and furthermore that Wilson did say to these same people that she was "not married to this man Brown" whose wife she claims to be Mrs Brown's attorney is A Lenhart, and she feels confident that her character will be vindicated and her pocket replenished by the result of this trial The case grew out of a simple neighborhood quarrel which first made its appearance in Justice White's court several weeks ago, and it was in that sanctuary of justice that the language complained of by the plaintiff was used

THIRSTING FOR THE UNATTAINABLE.—An item in this column in regard to the fine old whisky and peach brandy belonging to the Holladay Bros., having been removed to the cellar of D P Thompson the new receiver, is likely to cause that gentleman trouble A deep laid scheme was set on foot yesterday by some of Ben's friends collected at the Holton house to secure at least a portion of this "heavenly tipple," and Capt McCormick Crawford suggested that it might be procured on a physician's certificate, and Dr Bailey of Corvallis thought he would be justified in granting such a certificate to Ben, or in fact to any of the crowd all of whom were pining away for need of just such stimulants Mr Thompson coming along was consulted, and stated that it would take a certificate from more doctors than there were in Portland and Corvallis to procure a single glass of the precious liquor It is to be hoped that his cellar is a secure one as there are lots of burglars around

BAR TO QUESTIONERS.—On ... street, near Hall, three cottages are being constructed, In front is posted a placard which reads as follows "Have all the help wanted Yes! The houses will be for rent, and insurance agents can leave their cards and then their tracks with the heels toward the house We have already decided whom to support for justice of the peace in this precinct. Uncertain as to sheriff and clerk. Not a candidate for any office Further questions if submitted in writing, cheerfully answered in any modern language or in Sanskrit Egyptian or Phoenician I would seem that the builder of these cottages had been visited by candidates insurance agents and men in search of work till he was worn out and he now points all such to the placard and goes cheerfully on with his work.

NEW INCORPORATIONS.—Articles of incorporation of the Oregon Pottery Co have been filed in office of the county clerk The business of the corporation is to manufacture sewer pipe drain tile, brick, terra cotta pipe and all kinds of earthenware The capital stock is to be $50,000, divided into 500 shares, and the principal office of the company is to be located in Portland A M Smith James Steel and W H Smith are the incorporators The Northwestern Mining Company C D Bates, G A Steel and W H. Daven port, incorporators, have also filed articles in the county clerk's office They propose to mine for gold silver etc., in Idaho territory and other places and have located the principal office of the company in this city The capital stock is $500,000, divided into 100,000 shares

SUNDAY EXCURSION —There will be an excursion to Latourelle Falls to-morrow under the auspices of the Martha Washington Circle No 1, Daughters of Liberty The beauties of this picturesque spot upon the mighty Columbia are well known and the success of the series of excursions given last year by the same society is a sufficient guarantee of the patronage that they will receive during the present season The steamer A A. McCully has been chartered for the occasion and will leave the foot of Salmon street at 9.30 o clock in the morning She will stop for excursionists at Albina and Vancouver and, going up the Columbia will touch for a few minutes at the new town of LaCamas near the mouth of the Washougal

SUDDEN DEATH —The sudden death of John Denny of Vancouver, was a great surprise to his many friends in this city While at work in his garden the other day he was seen to fall helpless to the ground His wife was at his side at once and help summoned but he lived only about twenty minutes although medical assistance was soon at hand His death was caused by heart disease. The day previous he had expressed himself as being in excellent health The funeral ceremonies took place at St James cathedral attended by many friends and neighbors Deceased at the time of his death was clerk of the probate court and justice of the peace for East Vancouver precinct

EN ROUTE TO THE PENITENTIARY.—Sheriff Trevallion of Baker county arrived here yesterday having in charge the two men who lately robbed the stage near Weatherby, and a cattle thief The stage robbers are under five years' sentence each and the cattle thief goes up for ten years He left by the evening train for Salem, and his charges are now probably safely landed in the penitentiary with their heads shaved The whole three were fine tall, strapping fellows and the change from the free range of Baker county and the fun of stealing cattle and robbing stages to the confinement and monotony of prison life will not be an agreeable one to them

CONVICTED OF BURGLARY —Jim Harris the river pirate, was convicted of burglary yesterday by a jury in the state circuit court upon one of the three indictments pending against him The jury were out but a short time and after a discussion of the case were unanimous for conviction Monday is set for the time of Harris' sentence and it will probably depend much on the severity of the court as to whether the other indictments against the young man will be pushed or not.

ANOTHER CHINESE ASSIGNMENT —King Chong & Co., who had been doing business at No 28 Pine street until closed up by the sheriff like the rest of their heathen brethren, have now made an assignment, by which it would appear that they had only beaten white men out of their money Their assets consisting only of stock in store are appraised at $600 while their liabilities are near $3000 E Hass & Co of San Francisco are creditors to the amount of $722 31, and W J Quinn of this city $1261 74

DROWNED AT LA CENTER —Last Tuesday John Atwood, aged 18, was missing from the house of Mr Bern, his step-father. He had gone out after dinner with his gun and did not return as usual Next day a search was commenced and on Friday he was tracked to a log lying in Bolen's mill pond The water was drawn off the pond and his body found near the log his gun only a yard away It was known he could not swim and it is supposed his drowning was the result of an accident

WELL TREATED BY ASTORIANS.—The delegates returning from the grand lodge at Astoria are loud in their praise of the treatment they received from the Astorians The general verdict is that they were used too well J S Kadler says he gained several pounds of flesh during the trip and he has a mind to sell out here and move to Astoria for the benefit of his health A year or two there would probably build him up considerably

THE RIVERS —Water in the Willamette is still steadily rising and now touches all the lower wharves and just covers the flooring of that at the foot of Washington street. Bulletins from the upper Columbia report the river at Riparia at 8.30 A M at 13 feet 6 inches, a fall of 4 inches at Umatilla 15 feet 11 inches a rise of 1 inch at Celilo 13 feet 1 inch a no change, at Bonneville, 21 feet 11 inches, a rise of 5 inches

REUNION OF FORMER SACRAMENTANS —A number of former residents of Sacramento have associated themselves in a sort of society and have elected Judge Welty, president, and A Lobe, secretary A committee has also been appointed to perfect arrangements for a reunion of all the old Sacramentans in this city, to take place on or before the Fourth

AMUSEMENTS

THE CIRCUS —It is strange how many people desire the perennial pleasure received from attending a circus Yesterday He ris had 1000 visitors at the afternoon performance and 2300 in the evening The elephant Gipsy complained to an OREGONIAN reporter that her name had not been mentioned, and as this is her first visit to Portland she thought she ought to have a line at least Undoubtedly she is the handsomest animal of her species seen in this city for six years There will be performances this afternoon and evening and the season closes Monday night

THE STRATEGISTS —The audiences attending the closing performances of "The Strategists" at New Market theater although not large laugh just as heartily as if their elbows were dug deep in the sides of their neighbors In fact, it is a warm tribute to the excellence of the company who could not expect packed houses when playing against a circus in a town where a circus comes but once a year

Why Dr Price's Cream Baking Powder is superior to all others is because its testimony in its favor is the strongest most intelligent and most competent The million housekeepers who use it are a community a nation expressing a pre-eminence They know that in the kitchen in actual use they find it superior to all others

MILITARY MOVEMENTS ON THE MULLAN ROAD

Efforts to Reorganize the Camp—A Batch of Stories by the Wayside—Suggestion for a Steam Pump Man—The Homesick Irish Boy

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN]

EAGLE CITY May 3

The number of nuggets and specimens of rock and dust shown me is too great to describe The camp is full of them. A five ounce nugget was taken out of Gold Run, near Murraysville the other day, and this alone is enough to make one "bug eyed" with wonder I suspect the Old Channel will turn out some as rare and wonderful nuggets as ever have been found in any mines Two pounds of gold were taken out of Buckskin gulch day before yesterday in three sets of timbers by Ne e Vestal and some good finds have been made high up toward Butte which will be a good camp some time The fact is, there is not the crowding that was feared and when it comes to sticking by and doing something many claims are not worked away up the gulch The uppermost place Sullivan City has not amounted to anything yet and there is plenty of room all around The situation will be better understood when I explain that many of the claims taken have been practically deserted Some of those who rushed in and took up claims last fall on the snow staid by them many weeks without being able to open them and at last got discouraged and left They had not the bracing knowledge that men have who first prospect and then locate claims at a seasonable time want by they began to wonder why they should stand so much hardship without even having evidence that there was something in the ground worth waiting for. In this way some ground was left that may turn out the richest of all Such has been the case in some of the best of the California mining camps well remembered by the old timers Somehow I find myself listening to and always referring to the old timers though I am aware that the Steel claim and some of the best of the others have been found by tenderfeet

The situation is well understood in camp and there is a decided "kick" against the idle holding of claims without working them I can give no better idea of the feeling than by quoting the following from the Eagle of day before yesterday

"June 3 is the date set for a mass meeting of the miners of Coeur d Alene district to adopt new local laws The laws that were passed last summer were good enough for the rutabaga miners but they no longer meet the necessities of the camp The district demands a set of laws that shall compel the opening of claims In fact the salvation of the camp depends upon it There are claims located last summer on which never a stroke of work has been done whose owners are content to loaf around town whittling sticks and waiting for a chance to sell out in preference to opening and working their claims. This sort of thing has existed long enough Hundreds yes, thousands of men have visited the camp this year, traversed the length of Pritchard creek, and seeing no work or indications of work on the great majority of claims, have come to the conclusion that they are not worth working and have quit the camp in disgust giving it a black eye wherever they go This is a state of affairs which the camp cannot afford to tolerate any longer The rutabaga miners have controlled the destinies of the camp too long for its own good, and they have very effectually succeeded in killing the goose which lays the golden eggs

There are now too many interests at stake in Coeur d Alene to keep the camp running on the old basis Every business man, miner and prospector owes it as a duty to himself and to the camp to assist in reorganizing the district laws on June 3 Upon the action taken on that date depends the very existence of Coeur d'Alene as a camp Pritchard creek is known to be rich for its entire length but the great majority of claim owners either will not or cannot undertake the task of developing their ground. The gold is known to be here and it must be gotten out—if not by the original claimants then by jumpers

No local laws can override the laws of the United States, which insist on bona fide occupation and improvement of all entries on public lands, whether agricultural or mineral It is, therefore, an exploded idea that a man can hold twenty acres of rich placer ground by simply posting a location notice on a tree Actual possession and improvement is as necessary to hold a mining claim as a pre-emption or homestead The department of the interior has repeatedly decided in conflicting claims that parties locating and working in good faith, will be protected in possession as against the rights of others who claimed the ground by right of prior location Under these rulings more than one-half of the claims on Pritchard creek are jumpable to day and if they are jumped and worked in bona fide good faith the district and the courts will sustain them and the original locators will only have themselves to blame. They have held the ground long enough for speculative purposes It is needed now for the gold that is in it.

The same paper urges as the only way to secure immediate success all around so that the camp shall jump forward at once to the place it ought to hold that the claimants either go to work or forfeit and it strikes me that this will have to be done Going to work around Murraysville has developed a rare degree of success and the same course will have to be taken at Eagle

The postoffice now gives every man his mail in a thoroughly civilized way and there is more than one news stand Hilliard and Co ..., at the Wells Fargo express office, furnish THE OREGONIAN to a good list of subscribers and sell all sorts of reading matter In fact one need suffer no great hardship in the mines to day It is a wild and free life and yet bears put up around in a way to remind the newcomer that he is not in an eastern village The two cubs that were little black balls of fur in Jack Enright's when I left camp, have now enlarged into mischievous brown fellows who go climbing up awnings and making sudden appearances here, there and everywhere The constant arrival of pack trains gives a more lively appearance to the streets than they had last winter when there were infrequent arrivals of a few animals from the Mullan road over the Evolution trail This Evolution trail is now impassable

The new town of Placer Center up on the South fork I know little of It has its votaries, and there are a few who believe that old Discoverer Pritchard, knows of more gold on the South fork than has ever been found anywhere else A great many are prospecting in that section but this palpable taking out of dust in such quantities in this camp will keep the ... of excitement up this way unless there shall be some very remarkable finds by prospectors outside very soon

The old Mullan road beyond Jackass prairie, is in a very bad condition Lieutenant Mills of Fort Coeur d Alene has been up beyond Evolution with a squad of men, with a view of seeing what the chances are of getting the First cavalry over on its way to Montana and he has suffered many hardships The men have been compelled to do some dangerous high water fording and the animals were many of them lost with their packs containing the stores and all that was necessary for the comfort of the men Lieut Arasmith is also up in this section looking over the road and he has done some wonderful walking Arasmith is a surprise in many ways I remember when I first met him in the officers club room at the fort He began fooling with the billiard balls, and I directly transpired that he was a wonderful player—better probably than any other man on the Pacific coast. Now he goes up the old Mullan road and in the adversity of hard travel shoulders more than any of his men and holds out better than any of them I had thought him a dapper fellow, given to immaculate cuffs and wonderful at billiards but find him to be all nerve and good muscle This sort of thing brings all there is in a man If he be selfish, fretful and disobliging it will come out and, if other and better qualities predominate here can be no other place so good to bring them out I shall never forget the kindly attentions I received all along. When coming to a bad place the men began to get out of the wagon before we reached Jackass, there was always some one to suggest that I be allowed to remain and at Jackass Mr Irwin the bachelor dweller in a log house, found some way at every turn to make me comfortable Up there in the mountains men are more put to the test of temperament than anywhere else, I fancy

These military excursions are not encouraging for the early movement of cavalry It is perhaps, known to your readers that the First cavalry, now at Walla Walla, Fort Spokane and Fort Coeur d Alene is to change places with the Second cavalry, now in Montana scattered among the several army posts there, but it is not so generally known that the march cannot be made before late in July The troops will rendezvous at Coeur d Alene and go over the old Mullan road to Missoula where an exchange of transportation will be effected I suppose it is best to have this wild country traversed and I question not the wisdom of the war department but were I a cavalry officer I should much prefer a Pullman car on the Northern Pacific

Speaking of the army I am reminded of what I saw on my way by stage from Spokane Falls to the lake Just before coming to Dowley's bridge across the Spokane river eighteen miles from the falls we came up to an acre or more of bleaching bones I asked what they were, and was told that here was where General Wright many years ago before the war subdued the Indians by killing their horses to the number of 1400 The Indians were among the rocks in the hill to the southward of the river, and somehow their horses in going to drink, perhaps got separated from them. General Wright saw his opportunity, surrounded them in a marshy place near the river and had them all shot The Indians were then so helpless that they gave themselves up and the trouble was ended by some judicious hanging It interested me to look upon this historic field of bones becoming less observable each year, yet remarkable as having lasted a quarter of a century to tell the story of General Wright's famous victory

Near by this old field of bones is a solitary grave which also has a history In it sleeps a horse-thief and a murderer by the name of Kellogg and he was shot dead on the spot where buried He has been run out of Walla Walla and his life spared on the intercession of his wife but the badness in the man was the dominant quality, and kept him in evil ways till he met his death in a quarrel here on the bank of the Spokane river Near the grave a little heap of stones shows where his house once stood, by the old ferry and the whole furnishes a suggestion of what life must have been when this was the rendezvous of as bloodthirsty a horde of cut-throats and robbers as ever infested a wild and out of the way place

Further on over the Idaho line is the village of Steltam, the Coeur d'Alene chief He is rich in houses cattle and annual crops The village from the top of the stage coach looked like a thrifty white settlement It showed how wise or how lucky old Steltam was to escape the righteous vengeance of General Wright.

Incidents are not proof of gold but they crowd upon one all along on the way to the mines I asked why Nigger prairie was so named and happened to have the man at my elbow who named it twenty years ago He was traveling across the prairie, which is on the old Mullan road, and found a negro dead on the ground He was buried in a shallow grave but afterwards dug up to ascertain whether he was killed by a white man or an Indian It was found that an Indian killed him for his gun and the murderer was afterwards hung at Walla Walla where the negro had been an officer's servant Ever since the place has been known as Nigger prairie

To return to the mines and the bustle caused by the gold ... more and more as men get to work I can mention a significant fact by stating that the owners of the Golden Gate ledge are going to put in machinery as soon as they can get it. This ledge is on Rover mountain, one and a half miles from Eagle and on the surface assayed $33 gold to the ton down twenty eight feet it assayed $207 and is a ten foot ledge A stamp mill will set things humming, and the first one to put one at work will deserve the blessings of every other man in camp

It may be an unscientific suggestion but I believe that some man with a good steam pump could make a fortune if he would take it to Eagle and put it at work on wheels work it for the benefit of A B and C as they dig for bedrock where there is ample promise of gold yet too much water to do anything soon enough to satisfy the impatience of the claimants In a hundred ways there is work for a steam pump up here and I repeat, I believe the man who shall take one or more in will have as good a thing as a gold mine.

Of all the men I saw in camp there was but one out of work He was a bright faced Irish boy of about sixteen, and had come alone all the way from San Francisco A New York lawyer—Mr Phelps—took him into his cabin to sleep and my chum Denison gave him one of our blankets and an overcoat Robert choked back the tears of gratitude and made himself useful by building the fire and bringing water Next morning he smoothed the street in front of Anderson's to pay for his breakfast and that night, when he and I sat by the fire alone, I inquiring how he was fixed for blankets his lip quivered and tears came in his eyes of Irish blue

"The men was to blame for my coming," said he. "They pushed me on the seat of the stage though I told them at Spokane Falls I had no more money and they told me I should share their blankets and be made all right Now they tell me they have no room for me and but for Mr Phelps I would be out in the cold" Then he cried a bit though he tried hard not to and I comforted him by telling him he would have plenty of work which proved true next day and so Robert will not send for the money he left in a San Francisco bank SAXON

THE BEDBURY CAR-AXLE COMPANY

An Oregon Invention

We have just seen a new car axle which is undoubtedly the most ingenious invention of a car axle in existence It is strange that an invention so simple in construction and so manifold in advantages should be a product of Oregon, where railroading is yet in its infancy The axle is divided in the center by a most substantial joint and loses none of its strength by the division Our reporter interviewed the inventor Mr G W Bedbury an experienced railroad man and propounded the following questions Reporter—Mr Bedbury explain wherein lies the superiority of your axle Mr Bedbury—I claim, first, to reduce the friction on curves 90 per cent, secondly The axle does away with the liability of jumping the rail on a curve for with a rigid axle the upper wheel must slide as much as its distance is greater than the lower rail and it while sliding, the wheel comes in contact with an open joint or rough place on the track it will bound four times higher than if rolling If it bounds high enough to clear the flange the centrifugal force will cause the wheel to leave the track But with my axle the wheel is constantly rotating, and hence no bounding or leaving the track Thirdly, This axle adds to the life of the wheels for with a rigid axle the wheels must slide, and by sliding they become flat and unfit for use Reporter—Are there any more benefits to come from using your axle? Mr Bedbury—Yes As the axle reduces the friction 90 per cent they can pull 90 per cent more cars with the same power and expense Reporter—Mr Bedbury what chance is there for one to get into your company? Mr Bedbury—There is a limited number of shares now selling at $1 This stock is non assessable Reporter—Where can this stock be purchased? Mr Bedbury—At the office of our authorized agents, Knott & Jones No 10 Stark street who will always be ready to exhibit models and explain the invention

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

The Daily Oregonian.
SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 24, 1884.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

FRIDAY, May 23.

Overland receipts include 237cs canned goods, 120 cs 175 kgs syrup, 2 cs maple sugar, 40 bxs dried peaches, 500 kgs nails, 1 pkgs tobacco, 2 cs cigarettes, 4 pkgs cigars, 1 tank coal oil.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 834 ctls wheat; 418 bbls flour, 485 tls oats, 200 lbs hides, 76 cs eggs, 10 bxs fruit, 11 bxs butter, 109 bls hay. Also 635 bbls flour, 300,768 lbs wool, 5301bs hides from the eastern section.

WHEAT—The English markets show some improvement for cargoes under a fair demand from the continent. California cargoes off coast and nearly due are the sixpence better, while for shipment is unchanged. This would indicate no increased confidence in the future. Chicago lost a part of yesterday's gain, and San Francisco is rather weaker. The local market is quite inactive.

POULTRY—Values show no change from yesterday, as supplies continue ample.

EGGS—Plenty offering at 20 cents.

Other lines are without change, being in small trading to-day.

WOOL—Receipts from the eastern section are free. Wasco county shipping largely. The larger portion of this goes to San Francisco, and it is said that the transportation company is furnishing a rate that attracts shipments in that direction as against Portland and the east. The tariff rate hence to San Francisco is 1¼ cents. A few small samples have gone east direct, and early next week will be followed by larger lots. The through rate from this coast, as fixed by agreement between rail companies, is 3c on scoured, 2c on greased wool costing over 15c, 1½c on that costing from 12@15c and 1½c on the lesser grades. There are no buyers here on outside account, but a local mill is credited with taking 8000 lbs at 15c, and a quotation 15@18c is furnished for good to choice. San Francisco quotes somewhat higher, but eastern markets do not confirm the quotation. The eastern markets are in slow business manufacturers purchasing sparingly. A Boston firm writes that the great trouble is in an overproduction of woolen goods, and that better values are not looked for in the near future. This appears to be about the true situation, as all accounts agree regarding the unhealthy influence named. Yet there appears no good reason for anticipating any serious decline. There is little to be feared from the importation of foreign wools, as they cannot now be landed at prices offering. The local situation does not promise much early business, for buyers now on the coast are not pressed to buy, and evince a determination to idle away a time.

The Merchandise Markets.

In the merchandise markets a good call has obtained and shipments for the week were large. In values there are no important changes to report, but a number of new influences have arisen. Sugars are generally firm. A small stock of D has been secured at half a cent over old value. One of the California refineries has discontinued the D brand. Of late the brand has lost popularity, and it has been the policy of the refinery to run all syrup into low grade sugar, to be sold without brand. Two objects have been named. First, to avoid making syrup, and second, to furnish the market with a grade of refined sugar that would take the place of Island. Sugar carrying a large proportion of syrup is not desirable to handle during summer months. Outside hands have a quantity of island to arrive. For this quality a stronger feeling has prevailed at San Francisco, with 5¾@6c in bags and 6¼c in kegs quoted for good grocery grades. Rice is generally steady at our quotations. Coffee in only consumptive dealing. Canned fruits are not quotably affected by the weaker advices. California canners have finished on asparagus and working on peas. Strawberries and cherries come next. Some old stock is going east, and first hands are putting more in jobbers' hands. California dealers have concentrated raisin stocks and are holding for an advance. Tobaccos are generally weak, but cigar manufacturers do not complain. The dry goods trade shows a wider movement. Agricultural machinery and implements of all kinds are in large receipt, and the request promises well. In hardware the spring sale has decreased over last year, the building movement being less. Lime and cement are in liberal stock and weak. Grain bags continue firm with good undertone, as crop prospects continue flattering. We note the receipt of 300 bales. Regarding salmon, there is the same account of a light run and short pack to date. Nor are indications promising. Sales made public during the week were 5000 cases Scandinavian for export at about $1 20 on river; 5000 cases Astoria Packing Company at same price for export, and 1500 cases at $1 22½ domestic account; 2000 cases Warren's and 1000 cases Hanthorne's, private. Canners are firm in their demands, the selling pressure being small. Four vessels are in the river offering room for salmon.

BEANS—In dull sale. Small whites, 3½c; butter, 5c; pinks and bayos, 5½c.

BREAD, ETC.—Movement limited. Bakers quote: Ship, 3½c; pilot, 3½@4½c; soda crackers, 5@6c; other crackers, cakes, etc., 6@14c.

PICKLES—In good movement at $1 25@1 40 for kegs.

COFFEE—Steady at 19c for best Java; 11¾@11¾c for Guatemala and Salvador, and 12¾@13¾c for Costa Rica.

COAL OIL—Weak and slow at 17@20c, as to brand.

CANNED GOODS—Generally steady, with new importations necessary to keep up assortments. We quote: Corn, $1 60; tomatoes, 2½s, $1 35; 3s, $4 50; pie peaches, $2@2 25; table peaches, $2 50@2 75; assorted table fruits, $2 75; assorted pie fruits, 2½s, $1 75; gallons, $4 50.

RICE—The Coloma is due with a cargo of China. Island firm at $6 25; mixed China, $4 50@4 75.

SUGARS—We quote: (A) patent cube, 10c; (A) crushed, 10c; dry granulated, 9¾c; golden C, 8¾c; extra golden C 8¾c; extra powdered, 10c; D 7¾c.

BAGS AND TWINE—Wool bags, 40@42½c, as to weight; wheat sacks, 7½@8c July; fleece twine, 10c; sewing twine, 33@35c.

The Meat Market.

Quotations represent prices paid to dealers by slaughterers for whole carcasses.

BEEF—Grass fed is slow to come in. First quality, 5¾@6c; cows, 4¾@5c.

VEAL—Large, 8@9c; small, 10c.

MUTTON—Quote 4c.

LAMBS—$2 50 for choice.

HOGS—Demand good. Choice fat 6¾c; fair to good 5¾c; dressed, 8@8½c.

REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances. E. G. LOVE, Ph.D."

"It is a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. H. A. MOTT, Ph.D."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market. I find it entirely free from alum, terra alba, or any other injurious substance. HENRY MORTON, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology."

"I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome. S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer, Mass."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, New York, and at state Fairs throughout the country.

No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and Boards of Health all over the world.

NOTE—The above DIAGRAM illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by Chemical Analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schedler. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schedler only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that, while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair minded person of these facts.

* While the diagram shows some of the alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

Castoria promotes Digestion and overcomes Flatulency, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, and Feverishness. It insures health and natural sleep, without morphine.

"Castoria is so well adapted to Children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 82 Portland Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

What gives our Children rosy cheeks, What cures their fevers, makes them sleep; 'Tis Castoria.
When babies fret and cry by turns, What cures their colic, kills their worms, But Castoria.
What quickly cures Constipation, Sour Stomach, Colds, Indigestion: But Castoria.
Farewell then to Morphine Syrups, Castor Oil and Paregoric, and Hail Castoria!

CENTAUR LINIMENT—an absolute cure for Rheumatism, Sprains, Burns, Galls, &c. The most Powerful and Penetrating Pain-relieving and Healing Remedy known to man.

PARSONS' PURGATIVE PILLS MAKE NEW RICH BLOOD

And will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take 1 Pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks, may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. For Female Complaints these Pills have no equal. Physicians use them for the cure of LIVER and KIDNEY diseases. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c. in stamps. Circulars free. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass.

DIPHTHERIA
Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism. JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT (for Internal and External Use) will instantaneously relieve these terrible diseases, and will positively cure nine cases out of ten. Information that will save many lives sent free by mail. Don't delay a moment. Prevention is better than cure.

MAKE HENS LAY
It is a well-known fact that most of the Horse and Cattle Powder sold in this country is worthless; that Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and very valuable. Nothing on Earth will make hens lay like Sheridan's Condition Powder. Dose one teaspoonful to each pint of food. It will also positively prevent and cure CHICKEN CHOLERA. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c. in stamps. [illegible] I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass.

The Emperor Louis Napoleon smoked only the finest cigars the world could produce. Prof. Horsford says the Emperor's cigars were made specially for him in Havana from leaf tobacco grown in the Golden Belt of North Carolina, this being the finest leaf grown. Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is made from the same leaf used in the Emperor's cigars, is absolutely pure and is unquestionably the best tobacco ever offered.

Thackeray's gifted daughter, Anne, in her sketch of Alfred Tennyson, in Harper's Monthly, tells of her visit to the great poet. She found him smoking Blackwell's Bull Durham Tobacco, sent him by Hon. James Russell Lowell, American Minister to the Court of St. James.

In these days of adulteration, it is a comfort to smokers to know that the Bull Durham brand is absolutely pure, and made from the best tobacco the world produces.

Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is the best and purest made. All dealers have it. None genuine without the trade-mark of the Bull.

POISON
In the blood is apt to show itself in the Spring, and nature should by all means be assisted in throwing it off. Swift's Specific does this effectively. It is a purely vegetable, non-poisonous remedy, which helps nature to force all the poison or taint out through the pores of the skin.
Mr. Robert A. Easley, of Dickson, Tenn., writes, under date March 25, 1884: "I had chills and fever, followed by rheumatism, for three years, so that I was not able to attend to my business; had tried almost every kind of medicine and found no relief. A friend recommended Swift's Specific. I tried one bottle and my health began to improve. I continued until I had taken six bottles, and it has set me on my feet, as sound and well as ever. I recommend it to all similarly afflicted."
Letters from twenty three (23) of the leading retail druggists of Atlanta say, under date March 24, 1884: "We sell more of Swift's Specific than any other one remedy, and three to ten times as much as any other blood medicine. We sell it to all classes, and many of the best families put it as a general health tonic."
I am sure that Swift's Specific saved my life. I was terribly poisoned with malaria, and was given up to die. Swift's Specific relieved me promptly and entirely. I think it is the greatest remedy of the age.
C. G. SPENCER, Sup't. Gas Works, Rome, Ga.
I have known and used Swift's Specific for more than twenty years, and have seen more wonderful results from its use than from any remedy in or out of the Pharmacopœia. It is a certain and safe antidote to all sorts of Blood Poison.

WOLFE'S
SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS.
As a general beverage, necessary corrective of water rendered impure by vegetable decomposition or other causes, as limestone, sulphate of copper, etc., the AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is superior to every other alcoholic preparation. A public trial of over thirty years' duration, in every section of our country, of UDOLPHO WOLFE'S SCHNAPPS, its unsolicited indorsement by the medical faculty, and a sale unequaled by any other alcoholic distillation, have insured for it the reputation for salubrity claimed for it. For sale by all druggists and grocers.
